A Bit of Our History

Manchester, a town founded by German immigrants, has been the home of cigar and sewing factories, several inns, taverns and restaurants. Piecing together our history, the Hotel was known as the Old Franklin House which was operated by Arch Buchman, grandfather of Julia Berwager. Julia's original cast iron pans used in the restaurant kitchen are hanging on our log wall. Later, CV Greifenstein opened as a gas station and electrical/ appliance shop. Tires were repaired and oil was changed in our existing kitchen. In the 1920's an addition to the building connected the gas station and the bar operated by the Erb family to Doc's barber shop.

Circa 1938, Harry Gettier and Harvey Burgoon took over operation of the gas station. When Mr. Gettier passed in 1951, the gas station equipment was cleared out. George & Mildred Essich opened the Dutch Corner restaurant circa 1952- 53. Owner & Chef Susan Rill expresses her gratitude to Marian & Jack Nash of the Greifenstein family for their encouraging mentorship. Our alley has been named "Graffie Lane" in remembrance of Marian's father, CV Greifenstein. ~Enjoy your meal!
